

Risk of a Ukraine war spreading in Europe rests on unknown factors

Putin's ambitions, West's response or plain bad luck can lead to devastating consequences

Russia mocks West over 'invasion date'
Moscow 'Wants in Europe rarely start on a Wednesday.' That's from a top Russian diplomat...

A RUSSIAN invasion of Ukraine would be devastating, and a wider European war even worse. Whether a larger war happens would depend partly on President Vladimir Putin's ambitions...

At risk, arguably, is the European security order established after World War II and then altered peacefully with the reunification of Germany...

US President Joe Biden has said he will not fight Russia in Ukraine, nor would America's NATO allies...

Macron hosts African leaders ahead of French withdrawal from Mali

Paris

French President Emmanuel Macron hosts African leaders on Wednesday ahead of an expected announcement that France is withdrawing its troops from Mali...

Multiple sources said that Macron will announce that French forces will leave Mali and redeploy elsewhere in the Sahel region...

It remains unclear when, and how, Macron will make the announcement, which could come as part of Wednesday's meeting or when he travels to Brussels on Thursday...

Macron with African leaders, French President Emmanuel Macron (2nd from right) arrives to attend an informal meeting of European state ministers in Louvre on Wednesday

In Mali in 2013 but the insurgents were never fully quelled, and new fears have now emerged of a jihadist push to the Gulf of Guinea.

The announcement of the withdrawal comes at a critical time for Macron, just days ahead of a long-awaited declaration from the president that he will stand for a new term in April elections...

Takuba — a project driven by Macron to spread the security burden in the troubled region — will also come to an end, the sources said...
